

The image shows a large grid of small squares. The majority of the squares are a light beige or cream color. On the right side of the grid, there is a pattern of dark grey or black squares. This pattern includes a vertical column of three squares near the top right, a horizontal row of three squares below it, and a small cluster of three squares further down and to the left. The overall effect is that of a sparse, abstract design on a textured background.